

Iron gates part 2

My eyelids has opened once more, but my world has changed as I was saved by evil

The people against me, think they have turned me into another of their disciple and that I am now fighting for their cause

The people against me, forgets that you only need one thing to clean things, which is water

I am crying now and slowly the evil world is turning into my world again and it looks better than ever before giving me strength to what I have to do next

I have become a wolf in sheep's clothing as they tampered with my mind and tried to remove all my colors

They forgot one, for which I am grateful, as now I will blow up their center of power so the world can be a better for you while my eyelids hopefully will stay closed this time.

Written by Jesper Christiansen, 16 May 2021